

Amended Calendars for 2005-2006 and 2006-2007

At the February meeting of the University Curriculum Committee the attached calendars were approved. They are amended versions of calendars approved several years ago. We are asking Senate approval of these two amended calendars.

With the advent of decentralized graduations (total decentralization in spring semester) several colleges have had to hold graduation on Friday of exam week (last day of exams under the current calendar). This has led in some instances to graduating seniors having exams scheduled at the same time as their graduation ceremony or on the same day as graduation.

A number of individuals and groups have attempted to find a solution to this problem without success. The amended calendars provide a solution.

In the amended calendars the last day of exams will be Thursday. Exam week begins one day earlier than in the current calendar (Friday of the week before). This requires the deletion of one class day from the semester (Wednesday, the last day of classes). Even with this change UF is still within the number of days required by the state for each semester.

Regular Semesters - Exams Fri.-Thu.
